

Into the Beautiful North Read-Alikes

“Gossip of the Starlings” (2008) by Nina de Gramont

“Exquisite. Nina de Gramont’s prose seems wrought from gold filaments. The story lifts off the page and hovers around you as you read...I won’t forget this book” (Hoopla)

“Dodging and Burning” (2018) by John Copenhaver

“I’m a big fan of John Copenhaver’s elegant work. He’s a sophisticated stylist who can break your heart right before he turns devilish. Highly recommend.”

(Hoopla)

“Drowning Tucson” (2010) by Aaron Michael Morales

“Morales wrestles with nothing less than the parameters of the human soul” (Hoopla)

“Afterlife” (2020) by Julia Alvarez

“A powerful testament of witness and humanity written with audacity and authority.” (FIC ALVAREZ) (Axis360)

“The Which Way Tree” (2018) by Elizabeth Crook

“Elizabeth Crook has created a book of marvels. Its comedy is steeped in the hardscrabble tragedies of a wilder old America. You will even catch an echo of Twain’s wit in the picaresque narration.” (FIC CROOK)

“Just Like Us” (2009) by Helen Thorpe

“In this eye-opening and poignant true story about the experiences of four young Mexican women coming of age in Denver--two who have legal documentation, two who don't--Helen Thorpe "puts a human face on a frequently obtuse conversation" (305.8687 T) (Hoopla)